Safety first!

Using any baby carrier, safety should be top priority!

Whilst carrying, check the baby regularly to ensure that:

1. The baby is safely positioned based on instructions outlined in this booklet
2. Your baby's nose and mouth are visible and above the fabric of the sling all the time.
3. Your baby is breathing normally! Reposition the baby if her breathing is raspy, loud or abnormal.

This carrier is designed to carry one baby by one adult.

Do not wear your carrier during sport activities (like bicycling, running, jumping, etc.) in water and whilst driving!

Do not leave your baby in a carrier that is not being worn.

Check for ripped seams, torn fabric and damaged rings before each use.

If your baby has pre-existing medical conditions (born premature, has low tone, developmental delays or weighs less than 3,5 kg) please consult a babywearing educator or a medical professional before using any kind of sling. Preparing the Sling Put your sling on your non-dominant shoulder, with the rings placed close to the top of your shoulder. Pull the fabric across your back. Make sure the fabric isn't twisted or bunched.

Get the bottom end of the fabric and slide it through both rings.

Lift the top ring and pull the fabric through the bottom ring.

Pull the fabric down and out to adjust the sling.

recommended for older babies (6 months +)

Place the baby on your shoulder opposite the rings. Slide your hand through the sling to create an opening.

Slide the baby through the opening and position her seated on your hip. Her legs should be outside the sling spreading around your hip.

Tighten the sling with adjusting the fabric by pulling it down and out.

Tummy to Tummy

recommended for infants

Place the baby on your shoulder opposite the rings. Slide your hand through the sling to create an opening.

Slide the baby into the opening. For a newborn, arrange the baby's legs in a "frog leg position" where the knees are raised. Legs and feet should be inside the sling. For older babies, have the baby in an "M seated" position: The baby's knees should be higher than her bottom. Legs and feet should be outside the fabric.
